

While in 'Masjid

One should not raise ones voice.

One should not talk of worldly materialistic matters. Talking of worldly affairs destroys one's rewards, just as flames consume dry wood.

One should not pass on front of a person performing salaah.

One should at all times keep the body taahir (clean).

One should avoid spiting (expectorate) or blowing one's nose.

Keep one's self occupied with the remembrance of Allah.

If one has lost anything he should not announce it in the masjid

One should not buy or sell anything.

Small children or mad persons should not be brought to the masjid.

Foods with strong smell should not be eaten before coming to the masjid. Smokers should be mindful of their offensive odour, and giving discomfort to others.

Zikr and recital of the Our'aan should be in such a manner that it does not disturb others.

The fingers should not be cracked.

One whose clothing has an offensive smell because of excessive sweating etc. should remove the smell or change the clothing.

one should sit respectfully. Legs should not be stretched out.
